The mission of Art Journal, founded in 1941, is to provide a forum for scholarship and visual exploration in the visual arts; to be a unique voice in the field as a peer-reviewed, professionally mediated forum for the arts; to operate in the spaces between commercial publishing, academic presses, and artist presses; to be pedagogically useful by making links between theoretical issues and their use in teaching at the college and university levels; to explore relationships among diverse forms of art practice and production, as well as among art making, art history, visual studies, theory, and criticism; to give voice and publication opportunity to artists, art historians, and other writers in the arts; to be responsive to issues of the moment in the arts, both nationally and globally; to focus on topics related to twentieth- and twenty-first-century concerns; to promote dialogue and debate.

Submissions: The journal welcomes submissions from authors and artists worldwide and at every career stage, in the form of essays, features, interviews, forums, and other projects concerning modern and contemporary art. Proposals or abstracts are also welcome. Please include photocopies of proposed images. It is not necessary to be a CAA member to contribute. Authors whose works are accepted for publication will be responsible for obtaining permission to publish for each illustration. For further details, visit www.collegeart.org.

Letters: Art Journal welcomes letters to the editor. Mail submissions and letters to Patricia Phillips, SUNY New Paltz, Art Dept., FAB 225, New Paltz, NY 12561.

Postmaster: Send address changes to Art Journal, College Art Association, 275 Seventh Ave., 18th floor, New York, NY 10001.
